NOVA Urban League Offers Support to Kappa

By Eugene Johnson

On Tuesday, January 12, 2010, several members of the Alexandria Fairfax (VA) Alumni Chapter Housing Committee met at the historic Franklin & Armfield Office, a three story building at 1315 Duke St. which serves as the headquarters for the Northern Virginia Urban League. The building houses a museum on the topic of the Alexandria slave trade. The slave business at that location ended in 1861 when Union troops occupied Alexandria. The Urban League CEO treated several brothers to a tour of the museum and the facility. The purpose of the visit was to share our plan to acquire a multi-purpose facility and gauge the level of interest other organizations may have in using the facility. A contingent of Kappa men seeking to share the dream of home ownership with the Northern Virginia community, were led by the Eastern Province Senior Vice Polemarch, Dwight Thomas. Ken Bynum did a masterful job of presenting the case for the new facility at 6939 South Kings

Polemarch's Message

In the Fall of 1910, several undergraduates went home for the Christmas holidays and ten of them returned to school during the Spring of 1911 and were granted the authority to establish Kappa Alpha Nu Fraternity on the campus of Indiana University. These men were teenagers or in their early twenties seeking a better life in the state of Indiana, the hotbed of the Ku Klux Klan. There was no stopping them then and ninety-nine years later, there is nothing that will stop the brothers of Alexandria Fairfax. We are close enough to see the dream of homeownership materialize in the form of a multipurpose facility. Through KSEF, we signed the contract on the property at 6343 South Kings Highway. Consider the watch that our revered founder Marcus Peter Blakemore sold to incorporate Kappa Alpha Nu nearly 100 years ago. This selfless act planted the seed that grew into an international fraternity. Brothers of Kappa Alpha Psi, we can not be a revered founder, but we can learn from the selfless act of the Founders and do whatever we can to help us achieve something extraordinary. We must set the standard. We must take on this charge, we must charge forward as One Kappa demonstrating to the world that there is no power on earth that can thwart the Highway to a room filled to near capacity of motivated organization presidents interested in hearing how the Kappa acquisition might meet their meeting or entertainment needs. Richard Mattox gave a wonderful discourse on various synergistic/mutual benefits of like organizations housed in the same facility. The President of the Kappa Scholarship Endowment Fund, Curtis Wilson explained to the group that he headed the philanthropic arm of the organization which managed a scholarship program that awards students for four years, provides mentoring services and holds a week long overnight camp. He lamented the fact that KSEF programs had been adversely impacted by the lack of a residence. But the star of the evening was Ms Lavern Chatman, President and CEO of the NOVA Urban League who presented the case for Kappa before, during, and after the session to the many leaders affiliated with the Urban League. She spoke as if she were a Kappa, and emphasized the fact that the participating partners and the community at large will benefit from joining forces. She demanded that the organizations do everything possible to ensure success! She praised Kappa for assuming the risk, and stated that the others must assume support. That said, every head in the room nodded in agreement! The attendees present included presidents and leaders from Zeta Phi Beta, Delta Sigma Theta, Northern Virginia Urban League, The Adellesen Group, Northern Virginia Black Chamber of Commerce, Alpha Kappa Alpha, Alpha Phi Alpha, the Virginia Leadership Group and others.

effort of Kappa men living and operating under the will of God. One might consider the resources of our Founders as meager when compared to the resources that we command in Kappa today. But what do we have when our financial balance sheet does not boast of real-property or any other substantial plant and equipment? If our Founders were willing to part with their most prized possessions, then we as college-educated professional men of Kappa Alpha Psi must be willing to make the sacrifice to make this dream a reality. The clock began ticking and it ticks for the next forty-five days for the AF Chapter to come up with $200,000 to go to closing on a home for our programs. I am asking each of you to heed the call to make your contribution toward this effort. Some will say that it is a big ask, but as Kappa Men we do things big. I need each of you to contribute at least $1,000 toward the goal of homeownership. For those who can do more, I ask you to do so and those who can't do $1,000, I ask you to do something. It has been forty-years since Kappa Alpha Psi made its last purchase (the DC Alumni house) in the Washington Metro Area, a generation has passed, now we have an opportunity to fulfill the dreams of those who came before us and leave a legacy for those who come after us. Step up and be apart of living for something that will outlast yourself. Use your credit card, the Kappa Credit Union or write a check, just create inspiration and answer the call to service. We can do it but we need you.

President Obama taps Kappa For Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness Position

The appointment of Kappa Alpha Psi member, retired U S Marine Corps Major General Clifford Stanley as Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness makes him the Secretary's senior policy advisor on recruitment, career development, pay and benefits for 1.4 million active duty military personnel, 1.3 million Guard and Reserve personnel and 680,000 DoD civilians. He is responsible for overseeing the state of military readiness. The Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness also oversees the $36 billion Defense Health Program, Defense Commissaries and Exchanges with $17.2 billion in annual sales.

Dr. Clifford L. Stanley, led a distinguished 33-year career with the U.S. Marine Corps before becoming the president of Scholarship America in 2004. He became the Marine's first-ever African-American regimental commander and was promoted to the ranks of Colonel and Brigadier General ahead of schedule. Stanley holds a master's degree in counseling with honors from Johns Hopkins University, and a doctorate in education from the University of Pennsylvania. Throughout his career, he trained and educated servicemen; raised merit-based scholarships for high school students; tutored elementary, middle and high-school students; upon retiring from the military in 2002, Stanley joined the University of Pennsylvania as executive vice president. While leading Scholarship America, his programs distributed more than $1 billion to more than one million students. His affiliations include the White House Fellowship Association, the McCormick Educational Foundation, the United States Naval Institute, Spalding University, Boy Scouts of America, the Civil War and Underground Railroad Museum in Philadelphia, and Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity.

Otis Jones Heads Air Force All-Time Basketball Team

Famous Kappa Basketball stars include Wilt Chamberlain and Bill Russell. But I think its time to make room for another Kappa star in Otis Jones. The United States Air Force Academy, newspaper, "the Gazette" recognized Otis as one of the school's greatest players of all-time. The Gazette solicited opinions from academy sports information personnel, former coaches and former players. It weighted its All-Time Air Force Basketball Team selections as 50 percent on "court skills" ranging from shooting to rebounding to defensive prowess to "intangibles" like clutch play; 35 percent on "accomplishments" like Player of the Year, All-America honors, and scoring titles; and 15 percent on "position play" in terms of size, speed, shooting, defense and rebounding. None other than Otis

Jones who played guard in 1995 headed the starting five. Otis was a four year starter from 1991 to 1995 and is one of the Academy's most celebrated players. The Gazette described Otis as a scoring point guard who ranked second all-time at Air Force in career points (2,003), seventh in career assists (263), and fourth in career steals (147). He also led the Falcons in scoring as a sophomore, junior and senior and was a first-team all-Western Athletic Conference selection in each of those seasons. Otis owns the third (25.5 ppg in 93-94) and fourth (23.9 ppg in 94-95) best single-season scoring averages in Academy history. He was named an honorable mention All-American and was awarded the Academy's Athletic Excellence Award in 1994 and 1995. He achieves as much in the Air Force as he did in basketball, already achieving 17 different awards including the prestigious Benjamin O. Davis Leadership Award. An active member of Alexandria Fairfax Alumni chapter, Lt Col Jones is stationed at the Pentagon where he is a chief in the Tactical Airlift Branch.

New Year's Eve Gala an Unqualified Success!

Led by the combined efforts of Charles F. Parker Sr., and Dr. Bernard Chase, the Alexandria-Fairfax (VA) and Hyattsville/ Landover (MD) Alumni Chapters continued a tradition of presenting the classiest New Year's Eve Gala in the Washington Metropolitan Area at the Washington Renaissance Hotel. Over 950 guests rang in the year 2010 at this years' New Year's Eve Gala. This was the 24th year of this outstanding black tie affair. Many of the loyal guests have rung in the New Year each of the 24 years along with the distinguished gentlemen of Kappa Alpha Psi. Much of the success can be attributed to the attention to the details that the committee plans and executes annually. Each year boasts a little change, but what remains consistent is the glamorous surroundings, the gala decorations, the wonderful food, the great bands and the other activities that combine to make for an outstanding event. As the fraternity journeys toward its 100th anniversary, the Alexandria-Fairfax and Hyattsville/Landover chapters of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity are also completing a journey of historic significance. In the year 2010, the New Year's Eve Gala committee will be planning its 25th anniversary of the Kappa black tie gala.

Community Service:

Project Giveback

On Saturday morning, November 21, 2009, over 600 volunteers including six members of Alexandria-Fairfax (VA) Alumni Chapter converged on Bell Multicultural High School in Washington, DC with the mission of improving the plight of the community. Project Give Back is a community service organization based in Washington, DC, which provides a vehicle for corporations and young professionals to give back to the communities where they work and live. Project GiveBack held its 15th Annual Thanksgiving Food Distribution drive. Kappa Alpha Psi, gathered to help distribute over 900 nutritious food baskets to deserving families. Kappa members, Clifton Taylor, Charles Parker Jr, Norman Simon, Phillip L. Thomas and German Vigil combined to deliver about 30 boxes to needy families throughout Washington DC.

The 900 baskets represent an increase of 80% over the number of families assisted in 2008. Project GiveBack Founder Ransom Miller, III. said the organization wanted to double the amount of families it assisted because the current economic conditions have turned some long term Project GiveBack donors into recipients. Project GiveBack credits its success to strong volunteer partnerships with The National Pan-Hellenic Council of DC, Girl Scout Troop 6600, Howard University, Prince George's Community Church, The Black Doll Affair, Ward 5 Warriors Pop Warner Football Team and Woman2Woman Social Group.

Kappas Rain Holiday Spirit on the Carpenter House

Twas the night before Christmas and all through the house, not a creature was stirring, but the Nupes still came out!

Yes, once again, the brothers of Alexandria Fairfax Alumni chapter converged upon the Carpenter Shelter at 930 N Henry St, Alexandria, VA 22314. The facility is a shelter for the homeless and this year, as we have done so many times before, the brothers thought it not robbery to leave their own families and provide gifts and more importantly show the less fortunate that someone cares and that they matter. Alumni, collegiate, and individuals who hope to become Kappas all participated. The unsung heroes included the daughters of Howard Osborne, Brittani and Nicole who accomplished most of the shopping and gift wrapping, and our fearless leader of the Charity committee Stanley Lamb who organized and managed the event. But the star of the show was Vincent "Santa Clause" Jones. He along with his team of elves provided a memorable experience for the children. We estimated that 28 kids received 3 or 4 toys each.

2010: New Year Reflections

THE JOURNEY CONTINUES

By Charles F. Parker Sr.

100 years (5 score) is a long time for an organization to exist and certainly KAPPA ALPHA PSI FRATERNITY is no exception. We are now one year away from achieving the magnificent milestone of a fraternity existing for 100 years. What is it that makes the members of this fraternity continue to strive toward the fundamental goal of our fraternity, ACHIEVEMENT --a goal established by our Founders 99 years ago? It has not been easy, through the years there have been wars in far off places, the great depression that weighed heavily against survival, and segregation that robbed a man of his dignity and worth, and most of all eliminated opportunities to achieve. As I look back on my travels within the bond I marvel at some of the great things that the men of Kappa Alpha Psi have achieved, of course being honest I struggle with the fact that not all of our members adhere to the principles of our noble clan. As you re-dedicate yourself during our diverse Founders' day celebrations, take time to seek out an inactive brother and remind him that his duty to Kappa is for life. My Kappa journey has taken me through many alumni chapters and I have amassed a treasure trove of extraordinary Kappa memories: As a member of the Germany Alumni Chapter we hosted the Mayor of Los Angeles and then Grand Polemarch, Thomas Bradley. He became the first Grand Polemarch to ever visit a chapter outside the continental United States. His visit was part of his travels to Athens, Greece where he sought the approval of the International Olympics Committee to host the summer Olympics. I joined the Alexandria-Fairfax (VA) Alumni Chapter in 1980 when there were 36 members. It seemed that no one in the Province knew who we were. That did not prevent the dedicated members of the fledgling chapter from achieving at every field of human endeavor including unmatched levels of community service in the Northern Virginia area! In only 10 years Alexandria-Fairfax (VA) Alumni Chapter went from being insignificant to being recognized with the Paul W. Caine Alumni Chapter of the Year Award in 1991 and 1993. The award recognized the chapter as the best chapter in the fraternity. and the International Chapter of the Year. The chapter can also boast of two members being honored for their achievements with the highest honor of the fraternity, the Laurel Wreath. Now as our fraternity enters its 99th year, I am again on the verge of participating in an historic achievement, the purchase of a property that the Alexandria-Fairfax Alumni Chapter can call home. The establishment of a Kappa House in Northern Virginia will open new avenues for ACHIEVEMENT. Mr. N. Webster Moore, a 1936 initiate of the Mu chapter, Kansas University, said "If you want to be something, you have got to work hard to achieve it." The members of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity have worked hard for 99 years to live up to its goal of ACHIEVEMENT and that's why I can say, "IT IS GOOD TO BE A KAPPA."

About the author: Charles F. Parker Sr., affectionately referred to as "Chuck" was initiated on December 10, 1958 at the Beta Tau Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc. Chuck's honors include: the National Pan Hellenic Council Frater of the Year (1990, 1991); Pillar of the Eastern Province (1991, 1997); Grand Polemarch Certificate of Achievement (2000); A-F Brother of the Year (1987, 1988); Germany Alumni Brother of the Year (1979); A-F Pillar of the Chapter (1991). He has served on the Eastern Province Board of Directors; Grand Chapter Strategic Planning Committee and Board of Directors, Kappa Scholarship Endowment Fund, Inc. Chuck served as the President of the Northern Virginia Pan- Hellenic Council and served on the NPHC Eastern Region Board of Directors. Chuck's Alumni chapters include: San Francisco, Montgomery, New Orleans, Gulfport, Germany, and Alexandria-Fairfax (A-F) Alumni chapters. He served as Polemarch for Alexandria-Fairfax and Germany Alumni chapters.

Happy New Decade

By Eugene Johnson, AFA Chronicle, Editor

Happy 2010! The annual refrain of "Happy New Year" just doesn't seem adequate in a year that a man of African American decent ran the Oval office and assumed the mantle of the world's most powerful man. No, I'd say the phrase Happy New Year is not enough as we usher in the promise of a new decade. Would the phrase "Happy New Decade" suffice? Maybe not, Happy decade lacks the traditional flavor of the classic 'Happy New Year,' I'd say the ringing in of a new decade and the turn of the Century should be special for Kappa men, because a year into the second decade of the 20th century, ten young men with a dream set out to establish a fraternity which brilliantly grew into achievers from every field of human endeavor. I imagine the Revered Founders knew that in the absence of riches, the success of the fledgling organization would depend upon the grace of God. I do not believe it is a coincidence that Kappa has so many preachers and mighty men of God. As I reflect upon last year, I recall the brilliance of the 79th Conclave, I applaud the fact that every business session began with an inspirational sermon prepared by a nationally renowned Kappa preacher. During the Conclave, representatives from St Jude Children's Hospital recognized Kappa as its charitable giving partner of the year, mainly for remaining on pace to contribute a million dollars. Finally, to further focus on God, the fraternity bestowed its highest honor upon a nationally recognized preacher, our brother, Eddie Long. The Story of Kappa Alpha Psi records that the Founders experienced depressing isolation while attending predominately white Indiana University, and it was only through their own ingenuity and acceptance of a common purpose were they able to transform an unbearable and largely exclusionary existence into a lifelong bond. During that new decade 100 years ago, the Founders knew the fraternity had to rely upon high Christian ideas and the purpose of achievement. The fraternity would seek to raise the sights of black youth and stimulate them to accomplishments higher than might otherwise be realized or even imagined. That idea a century ago is the same idea we rally around today. The idea today is to work together to achieve as "One Kappa" and inspire brothers to see themselves as part of a greater whole no matter the size of their contribution. Mathematically, the whole cannot be greater than the sum of its parts, but Kappa proves that when brothers answer the call to service and work together as "One Kappa" they achieve more than the individuals ever could imagine alone. We have all seen great teams lose in sports because the less talented team played as a unit focused on achieving a singular goal, selflessly focused on the name on the front of their jersey vice the name on the back. Together we can fund million dollar charities and scholarships; together we can acquire multi-million dollar properties, support multi-million dollar entrepreneurial objectives and influence political outcomes. This decade, like a century ago, let's resolve to actively work together to make the Kappa diamond shine so bright that the second stanza of past Grand Polemarch Henry Green's famous poem becomes evident to all: When each member shows he cares How every other Kappa fares And our obligation jointly shares, That's the Kappa of my Dreams; And when Greeks from every place Admit that Kappa leads the race And our Achievements set the pace, That's the Kappa of my Dreams. Happy New Decade.

Blessed in 2009

Victor S. Angry/CSM, ARNGUS/Interim Command Sergeant Major/of the Army National Guard

I am proud and honored to be a part of such a distinguished group of men. I wanted to drop in and tell you all this and to wish you all a very healthy and prosperous 2010! God has blessed me with much in 2009, to include allowing me to progress in the fraternity as your humbled Strategus for two continuous years, and being assigned by the Army National Guard leadership to the Interim position as the Command Sergeant Major of the Army National Guard. I say interim not to diminish the position but to note that while being the first black to hold this position, it is not permanent as of yet. Yes, this has been a stellar year for me and I say that my fraternity had a lot to do with that! I don't know what 2010 has in store for me but each of you can rest assured knowing that I will come into it with more fire, more love and more passion than ever before and achievement will remain my focus. I know my brothers are having (if you are reading this now) or had a great time at the gala. I look forward to seeing my brothers at the board meeting and chapter meetings and hopefully, we can get back to a few Nupe nights.

 Happy New Year Nupes!

Determined in 2010

Billy Washington, Housing Committee Chairperson

As we come to the end of another year and prepare to accomplish a major achievement for our great chapter. I offer some words of motivation drawn from our Great Leaders of past.

Self Determination – Use our knowledge to improve to improve our present and enhance our future and to give honor to our past. Our task is to know our past and to honor it; to engage our present and improve it; to imagine our future and to forge it. Much love and blessings to my brothers and their families.

Balancing your health

As we enter a new decade, many of us make resolutions. They may involve God, family, health, or money. The irony is that they are all intertwined. We have all formed some sense of purpose around our family's well being. That may involve church, spirituality, providing monetarily, or deciding you want to be around for your grandchild's college graduation. No matter which aspect you focus on, they come back to one another. In healthcare, many issues have the same relationship. As black men we are plagued with ailments that shorten our lives such as high blood pressure, diabetes, and obesity. Cardiovascular disease is the #1 cause of death among African-American males. So that loved one who died of a heart attack somewhere around age 50, may have benefited from understanding the relationship between these conditions. YOU can prevent this from being your destiny!

Kappa has worked hard to educate brothers about prostate cancer and making us all aware of the preventive measures. Prevention is the best way to treat any sickness. Regular check ups, weight control, exercise, and eating to live can contribute to a high quality long life. That is a life free of some medications; maintaining your independence into the senior days of your life, and keeping some of that money you saved to retire out of the healthcare system and in your pocket. I challenge all brothers to find the balance between God, Family, Health, and money. As a healthcare provider, I'm better equipped to guide you in the area of, well...health. Know that if you are addressing your eating habits then, your body will begin to better control high blood pressure and diabetes. Getting your dental checkups and treatment of periodontal disease can lessen the magnitude of your blood pressure, diabetes, or any 'itis' you may have had diagnosed. Making sure you have a full set of teeth to properly chew your food which will reduce the advent of obesity; which in-turn reduces the advent of diabetes, colon cancer, or reflux. The relationships go on and on. Any one who is not faced with systemic diseases, keep it that way! By regular exercise, reducing stress, moderating fatty foods; as well as maintenance with your health providers, and spiritual guides you can remain in good health for a lifetime. Even fraternizing with the brothers can be a source of good health. Studies show that people with personal relationships tend to avoid depression and lead longer lives. And you can quote me on that one.

God Bless and Happy New Year to all!

Its Official Alexandria Fairfax Rolls out its First Chapter Emblem

As of December 2009, the Alexandria Fairfax Alumni chapter voted to establish its first ever "official" logo. The logo in question is depicted to the left. The logo design is centered around the Coat of Arms of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity incorporated, placing Kappa at the heart of all that we do. The crimson background is a testament to one of the two official colors of Kappa Alpha Psi. The circular design conveys the idea of unifying college men of culture, patriotism, and honor in a bond of fraternity. The inner circle bounds our efforts to the goals of the chapter, the Eastern Province, and Kappa Alpha Psi as One Kappa. The laurel wreath surrounding the coat of arms acts as a testament to the achievements of the chapter, and the single estoile above the chartering year "1976" honors Brother Roosevelt Phillips for planting the seed that has grown into Alexandria Fairfax (VA) Alumni.
